To Deborah Weston

[New Bedford, Mass.] The writer tells how she and her companions argued the conductor of a train into withdrawing his demand that "friend Borden" (colored?) take his seat in the Jim Crow car. Tells of the good reception given Edmund Quincy's lecture in New Bedford. The formation of a new society open to both men and women is being considered. "Cousin Susan thinks it an excellent plan." "The political folks are hard at work in Bristol County." Joshua Leavitt has been lecturing at Fall River. Praises Elizabeth Rodman.

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

[West Roxbury, Mass.] Mr. (Theodore) Parker has promised to contribute to the Liberty Bell. The writer regrets that she has not been inspired. The poetry in the Latimer Journal gave great delight: "our young people sang the songs to their affixed tunes..." At the house of her sister (Mrs. Eliza Lee (Cabot) Follen) all were assembled to read Dickens, when Frank (Francis George) Shaw came in and told them that Latimer would probably be free today. "We hear too that Gray has sneaked off!" The writer supposes that Abolition women know the whereabouts of Latimer's wife and child.

To "Dear Friend" [Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

[No pl.] Sends a little contribution for the Liberty Bell. If the addressee should reject it, the Child's Friend may receive it. Regrets a discussion with the addressee's sisters as neither side was moved by the other's arguments. The writer has not "that heroic love that you & Eliza (Mrs. Follen) have, of overcoming trial," yet believes that the test of her strength would not prove her deficient. Referring to yesterday's debate, the writer explains that she "quoted W. Channing as opposed to Garrison not in character but in manner." The writer believes that if Garrison "had that refinement which is so strik[illegible] in W. C[h]anning] added to his clearness he could have s[illegible]en more & wider truths than he has, and yet have been [illegible]d."
